

dereification

reality
is a labyrinth of mirrors, recursively referencing itself.
the map is not the territory, but a model through which objectivity emerges from the underlying relational nature of Nature. śūnyatā. dissonant maps each partially capture the depths of an omniform. the maps realize individual nodes on a web, and the only way to progress understanding is through empathy. i lie beneath a palette as i mix the colors of my soul into mêmité. “there are no closed systems,” i murmur to enter my alchemical dwelling.
through a haze of compassion, potentiality creaks open its doors.
i fall through but there’s no ground. when the wind hits my face, i know it is the ultimate foundation, and i smell cosmogensis.
when securing the last pin, another always detaches.
a chinese finger trap wanders onto the table. a fly dances out of the fly bottle.
a sky too vivid to transcribe.
a mystery that bounds without landing.