

shreddings from my dream journal intertwining on their own accord

a dream is a sleep in itself,
like an inchworm, one must contract to extend.
wormhole in an apple to another apple,
the framework is made of the wind.

one must first contract to extend, an inchworm is a necessary component for metamorphosis.
the framework is always made of the wind,
an octopus flying through the azure sky.

a necessary component for metamorphosis:
inversion of the holographic principle.
an octopus flying through the azure sky,
the desert moist with the spirit.

inversion of the holographic principle,
to manipulate the flow of time like a faucet.
the desert moist with the spirit,
memory—a bath within a bath.

to manipulate the flow of time like a faucet:
a wormhole in an apple to another apple.
a bath within a bath, remember
a dream is a sleep in itself.